Subject:	Mailing list welcome message doesn't indicate that list archives are public
Description:	Typically when new customers join BitFolk they are invited to subscribe to our "users" mailing list. Neither the subscription confirmation page nor the "welcome" message that is sent after confirmation indicate that the archives of the list are public. You can only determine that by either visiting the list information page or discovering the list archives. It should be made clear that list archives are public. The best place to do that is probably the welcome message that is sent to all subscribers.
